Company Based Project: The application of knowledge in real business situations
“By opening it’s doors, Sarajevo School of Science and Technology starts a new era in higher education. It opens a new bridge between Europe and the world – the future is here.”
Oslobodenje, daily newspaper

“SSST presents its graduates: these are the young people who will communicate with the world’s greatest minds”
Avaz, daily newspaper

“They are young, brilliant SSST students, with excellent knowledge of English (and other languages), high GPAs and a desire to continuously upgrade and advance their knowledge. Even before graduating, they managed to secure placement at some of the world’s leading universities, but they plan to be back and they plan to utilize gained knowledge to benefit their own country.”
Magazine DANI

“Young Bosnians should no longer need to leave their country in order to fulfil their talents, once this institution is established here in Bosnia’s own great capital city. Moreover, because it is to be privately financed and independent, and because teaching will be in the world’s new international language – English, the Sarajevo School of Science and Technology will provide exactly the right emphasis for the next generation. Irrespective of cultural or religious background, and with achievements judged on merit alone, you should aim to be a beacon for the new Bosnia.”
Baroness Margaret Thatcher, Former Prime Minister of the United Kingdom
“Our Mission is to provide our graduates with globally relevant and practical experience by going beyond the classroom.”
