

MA Conflict Analysis and Reconciliation

Studying conflict in a post-conflict setting such as Sarajevo will provide students with a first-hand perspective and direct understanding of the main challenges and issues, whilst integrating theory, research and practical skills.

Study a unique and highly interdisciplinary approach to analysing intergroup conflicts.

- CONFLICT, CULTURE AND DEMOCRACY
- ANTHROPOLOGY OF CULTURE AND VIOLENCE
- CONFLICT MANAGEMENT TECHNIQUES
- PSYCHOLOGY OF INTERGROUP CONFLICT AND RECONCILIATION
- GENOCIDE IN THEORY AND INTERNATIONAL LAW
- POWER SHARING IN POST-CONFLICT SETTINGS
- TRANSITIONAL JUSTICE
- MEDIA, CONFLICT AND PEACE

Students will learn from highly respected Bosnian and international scholars who will provide them with a comprehensive and experiential understanding of the processes and conditions leading to various types of intergroup conflicts (ethnic, religious, communal, political etc.), conflict resolution techniques, as well as post-conflict related processes such as power sharing, justice and reconciliation. The issues will be analysed and discussed from a multi-disciplinary perspective ranging from political philosophy, political science, international law, anthropology and social psychology.
